

Colorectal - Endoscopy of Colon (Colonoscopy)

Introduction

The COVID-19 pandemic has had a significant impact on the NHS ability to provide routine elective services. We recognise that patients are waiting longer than we would all like and it is not always possible to identify when treatment will take place. This document provides you with information on how you can support yourself while waiting to attend the hospital. The guidance has been written by clinicians who are responsible for your care.

When you are waiting for further treatment, it can sometimes feel like a long wait. The information and advice here is aimed at helping you manage that wait so you arrive for your appointment in the best possible physical and mental health.

The NHS has limited resources which means that we are unable to treat you as quickly as we would like. Each healthcare provider has to consider the type of help you need, how quickly you need treatment, the best course of action to help you and when and where you can be seen.

The process of sorting patients based on their individual needs is called prioritisation. The system of prioritisation is applied consistently across the NHS to help us to decide the order in which patients receive their treatment. This is essential to ensure that we provide care based on need. The system means that care is delivered in the fairest way possible.

Once a referral has been made from primary care to secondary care, the specialist team conduct assessments and then agree with you on the right course of action. At this stage, the urgency will be assessed. If you have a long-term health condition, for example, you may need treatment faster than someone without.

Your consultant has recommended a colonoscopy. This is a procedure to look at the inside of your colon (large bowel) using a thin flexible camera (endoscope).

You will be provided with a patient information leaflet and instructions that detail the procedure and will include how to take the bowel preparation (laxative) beforehand.

The procedure takes around 45 minutes and you will be offered entonox as the procedure can sometimes be uncomfortable. If you decide to have an intravenous light sedative to help you relax you will require an adult to collect you and stay overnight with you following the procedure. You will not be able to drive for 24 hours.

Guidance for Patients

Common reasons you have been referred for a colonoscopy:

- Weight loss and persistent abdominal pain
- Rectal bleeding
- Iron deficiency anaemia
- Changes in bowel habit
- Surveillance for conditions such as colonic polyps, inflammatory bowel disease or colorectal cancer
- Family history of colorectal cancer or Lynch Syndrome

You will need to bring a list of medications to your appointment, along with a dressing gown, slippers and bag for your belongings. If you are taking iron tablets or supplements you must stop for 7 days before the procedure.

It is advisable to have a low residue diet for 4-5 days before the test which will help clear the bowel.
