

Day Surgery Centre – Injection into a Joint (under local anaesthesia)

Introduction

The injection used may include local anaesthetic and a steroid. Local anaesthetic is the drug which blocks pain for a short period of time and the steroid is the drug which can help relieve swelling, stiffness and pain by reducing any inflammation.

Guidance for Patients

Will I be in pain following the injection?

You may have some mild discomfort at the site of the injection. Please take your pain relieving tablets.

The local anaesthetic injected works immediately but its effect usually wears off quickly.

There may be a delay before the steroid injected starts to work but its effect may last for weeks or months.

Will there be any bleeding or bruising following the injection?

The injection site may ooze a small amount of blood over the next 24 hours – do not worry. If there is a lot of bleeding or the area becomes very swollen you should seek medical advice.

A dressing will cover the site of the injection; this can be removed after 24 hours. There may be some bruising at the injection site.

When can I start using the affected joint?

You should continue to use the affected joint as normal.

Will I need time off work?

You will be advised of this at the Day Surgery Centre and a medical certificate will be supplied if requested.

When can I drive?

You must not drive until you are comfortable and feel you would be able to safely perform an emergency stop.

Will I have an outpatient appointment?

Before leaving the Day Surgery Centre or ward a member of staff will tell you about any further appointments with the surgeon. If you do not receive confirmation of this appointment in the post please ring the call centre on - 01926 600036.
