

Pain Management

Introduction

The Covid pandemic has had a significant impact on all the NHS including the Calderdale and Huddersfield Foundation NHS Trust's ability to provide routine elective services. We recognise that patients are waiting longer than we would all like and it is not always possible to identify when treatment will take place. This document provides you with information to help you stay healthy while waiting to attend hospital and should be read in conjunction with the specialty level guidance appropriate for your condition.

Calderdale and Huddersfield Foundation NHS Trust will aim to provide you with a date for your procedure as soon as possible. We are committed to making your experience before, during and after your procedure as pleasant and safe as we can.

In turn we would like patients on our waiting lists to help themselves to ensure they have the best possible outcome and that means preparing your mind and body by using lifestyle changes, where necessary.

Guidance for Patients

Pain management focuses on relieving pain that ranges from acute (temporary) to chronic (long-term). Most physicians and health professionals provide some pain control to patients however they also call on additional help from a medical specialty devoted to pain, which is called pain medicine. What should I do if my health is deteriorating?

Non-Urgent Health Advice

If you experience an increase in pain or a change to any symptoms, you should in the first instance contact your GP for review and advice. Your GP will be able to contact the hospital if they feel you need to be seen sooner.

Urgent Health Advice

For urgent health advice about physical or mental health, when it's not an emergency, please call 111 from any landline or mobile phone. You can also visit www.nhs.uk. The NHS 111 service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.
