

Spinal surgery – Injection of therapeutic substance around spinal nerve root

Introduction

The COVID-19 pandemic has had a significant impact on the ability to provide routine elective services within the NHS. We recognise that patients are waiting longer than we would like and it is not always possible to identify when treatment will take place.

Our waiting lists have been clinically reviewed to ensure patients are seen in priority order and we continue to monitor these lists. This may mean you wait longer for your care, but we will be in touch as soon as possible with details of your appointment.

This document provides you with information on how you can support yourself while waiting to attend the hospital. The guidance has been written by clinicians who are responsible for your care.

The aim of spinal injections is to ease leg or back pain and in some cases both. They can also be done to help identify the main source of pain. The chance of an injection giving you satisfactory improvement of your symptoms is 60-65%.

Guidance for patients

It is important that while you are waiting for your surgery you remain as active and as medically fit as possible. If you have any long-standing condition, you should get this reviewed at your doctor's surgery to make sure it remains well controlled. This will also help prevent any unnecessary delays when you come for your pre-operative assessment. Maintaining a well-balanced diet is also important, as is reducing any excessive weight that may be impacting on your general health. If you are a current smoker it would be advisable to seek support to help with stopping. Advice on quitting smoking can be found at your local pharmacy or doctor's surgery.

What should I do if my health is deteriorating?

Urgent health advice

For urgent health advice about physical or mental health, when it's not an emergency, please call 111 from any landline or mobile phone. You can also visit www.nhs.uk. The NHS 111 service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Life threatening emergencies

For something life threatening including severe bleeding, breathing difficulties or chest pains, please dial 999.

GP surgeries are still open

If you experience an increase in pain, inability to weight bear on this limb or a significant reduction in mobility, you should in the first instance contact your GP for review and advice.

GP surgeries are still open and are working differently to how they did before the COVID-19 pandemic. GP practices continue to make best use of telephone, online and video consultations. Face-to-face appointments are still being given to those who need it.

When you phone or use an online form to contact your GP surgery to make an appointment, you will be asked some questions which are designed to help staff guide you to the most appropriate clinical person to help you with your condition. This could be a nurse, clinical pharmacist, physician's associate, GP or paramedic.
